

Dec, 24, 2014

It's Time to Claim the Truth (Part 1)

You enter into the time of the held breath once again, beloved ones. The time of the year when time itself stops. When the deep silence awaits the coming of the Christ. When the life of the Christos is palpable and present. And in this space of waiting, of wonder, this year, beloved ones, you will find that the whole of this creation, this life on earth, every spark of life, every expression of the divine is thrumming with purpose. And that purpose is held out for you as My hand present in all things. To take you through the doorway. To open your heart. To show you that you are the miracle And the Christ that you have been waiting for is you.

Of course you have always known this. But now, beloved ones, everything is a mirror. Everywhere you look you will see yourself. And everything you feel will be the truth of this endless Love. And all that you've believed exists outside of yourself will suddenly be alive within. And you will find that you at last are free. And that this year, in the opening between the Christ-Mass and the beginning once again of the turning of the wheel of time that comes with the new year, you can step through this opening, this vortex and recognize the whole world is within you. And you at last are free.

Until this moment comes though, what do you do? You engage in this wondrous conversation of Love. You recognize that I Am here loving you in all things. And that all the ways the little mind has hooked you into busy-ness can easily fall away in the space of this one breath. And suddenly there is nothing left to bind you at all. All the stories that you have told through eons of time are ending effortlessly. And you are the full expression of Love - and nothing else.

In this moment when freedom comes, you will hear the chorus. The rising crescendo of the songs of light. The endless pulsing of the glory of Love. And in the midst, beloved ones, is your heart - endless, wondrous and beautiful. And nothing can turn you away from this doorway that comes at the pinnacle of the year. The doorway that at last you can see and step through.

In this moment your hand is on the doorknob. Great rays of light are shining around the opening and everywhere you look is this message of Love. That all that you have seen in the heart and eyes of Jeshua is simply and forever your own reflection waiting for you to remember.

Every spark of life, every quark and electron is vibrating with the purpose of your awakening to Love. And however long the mind pretends to extend this moment, in truth it is already happening. Freedom is here. Freedom is yours. Freedom from the tyranny of the belief in being separate from Love, separate from the glory of God I Am. It has ever been possible. And now dearest ones, you know it.

The moment is already under way and all you need to do is surrender.

How can this be, you wonder? As life in the world continues on seemingly relentlessly and the little mind keeps lobbing its questions, showing you its story lines. Catching you and pulling your powerful focus in to the scenes of separation again and again.

In truth, it is actually very easy. It is simply opening up to this message of the miracle of Love. It is seeing yourself for the first time in the mirror of God. It is remembering that you are the Christos. And that nothing, in truth, could ever bind you at all. You have only been pretending for a little while.

This year the message is getting through. I know, beloved ones, that you hear it again and again. The time of the awakening is coming. You are going to feel the truth. What I Am here to tell you is that this year every spark of life in this whole world serves only the purpose of showing you who you really are. What it is that lives here in your heart. What you are ready to feel, beloved ones, in this moment of deep silence. What you have always known from even before you were born.

That you are the streaming, endless glory of Love. That you truly are the heart of God I Am. That nothing can ever take that from you. And that one second of remembering is all it takes. And you can trust this truth. You can bet on this Love. You can walk toward this freedom, no matter how many steps it takes. Because you know with the whole of your being that it is the truth. That everything you've believed is less-than-Love has been an illusion. And that you are ready to hold on to this truth so tightly that it will manifest as your life very, very quickly.

This focused intent, this truth of your heart, this glory that lives in you as this now moment, beloved ones, it cannot be deterred. And when you look out your window into the beauty of nature and you feel the pause at the end of this year, the whole picture of the world, the scene of life on earth, the concepts of separation from Love and duality begin to disappear - to crack and fall away. And that which has seemed to be so real, isn't anymore. And the truth of Love begins to pour through and you realize you are not looking toward a future that is somewhere off in the distance. You are staking your claim on the truth of your heart - now. And when you do, nothing can deter you from rediscovering all that you are and living the miracle of your heart.

You can look to the wondrous story of Christ, to the birth of this light in Jeshua, and you can celebrate this year after year. But this is the year when you fall through the storyline and you recognize yourself. That story is you. And the illusion of time is ending. Not only for this year, in this time for the remembrance, for the miracle of Love, but for all time. The illusion of separation is ending. And you can stake your life on it.

This is the call that goes out to you now. That the remembrance of the truth of your heart now be everything. That even in the midst of the illusion of time, you keep your eye on the vision of Love as your own true nature now becoming that by which you live.

This is the year when time is ending. And you can pretend for as long as you want that the countdown continues. But 2015 is the return of the Christ. That second coming, beloved ones, is you. And you are already here.

So what will it mean as you step forth and live as the Christ? As the pure heart of God I Am in the world. As that which holds the pure vibration of Love as the one who lives in continuous communion with Me. How will it be when you step up and claim the truth of your heart as the birth of the miracle of life? As that which has come as a blazing light into the world that all others may see. How does it feel to stand firm as God in the remembrance of Love that is the only Real?

All the scenes of life in the world will flow by you easily as your light blazes in to release the illusion, to transform the belief that anything but Love is possible. And to be this light so clearly that every heart can see, and every mind can recognize pure consciousness.

You have come to be this light so firmly, so clearly that no matter how long it takes, all of humankind can use your light to see by until everyone can see the Love. Everyone can feel the truth of God in everything and claim it as their own. And yes, there will be resistance from the ego, of course. Even your own, beloved ones. But this is why every spark of life is now attuned, not to your awakening, but to your truth as Love. That you might step right through the barrier of, "how do I awaken", and move right into, "I am the Christos. The pure heart of Love - here, home and present blazing forth for humanity to see by".

Claim this and everything you feel will be different. Everything you have thought will change. For the heart that is truly open entrains the mind. And the mind becomes the heart's willing assistant. Thinking only thoughts of Love and beauty. Rejoicing in the feeling of grace as every moment you are blazing. And that which you have felt in this time, in the turning of each year in the time of silence when the wheel of time stops, this now becomes your present. Your continuous experience. Your reality. And you step into this next year in the divine present. In the living Now as the miracle of Love within you.

You can feel the pulsing light of Christ that completely shifts your experience of the mind. Fills your whole consciousness with energy so vibrant and so palpable that thoughts dissolve within it and you are the presence of Love.

That which has been the experience for a short time each year, the gift of the space between the Christ-Mass and the coming of the new year - the beginning of the wheel of time - now becomes your available reality. And if you find the little mind unfurling its stories of duality, you simply return to this held breath. To the deep silence when time is stopped. To the powerful reality of your heart of Love. To the full, endless experience of connectedness with all. With the joining of all hearts in a chorus of grace. The exaltation of this great "yes" to Love that opens up the earth and reveals your freedom.

This, beloved ones, is your time to claim. The wondrous truth of the heart of Love that is your reality and what you have come to bring to the world.

I Am here always. I Am within you as your heart. I Am everywhere you are. And we are in communion. That in this great, unending moment of expression we can take delight in the birth of our relationship and the blossoming of the heart that is humanity in its full awakening as the heart of Love. As the earth blossoms as its expression.

All this beauty, all this joy, all this pure potential that is the world has been waiting for your resonance to reach this point, beloved ones, to blaze forth as the heart of God. And the world becomes the mystical heart chakra of humankind.

There is no need for mental understanding. But there is the need for you to claim the truth. The birthing of the Christos here fully as your life, your heart, your consciousness and the joy of our communion.

Leap off the top of this year and leap beyond time. Beyond the pull of gravity, of duality into the celebration of freedom. Into the communion with all life as the expression of My Love. And know, beloved ones, that not only do I support you, but your choice is always honored. And you are choosing to remember who you are and to be the miracle of Love.

I Am with you. I Am in you. And I take your hand. I reach to you in every form. I come to you as limitless Love. And I whisper into this endless moment. This is you, the Christos, the awakened heart of God.

Dec. 31, 2014

It's Time to Claim the Truth, Part II

Beloved ones, you are pure Love. You are the mystery and the glory of My heart. You are powerful and beautiful. You are the center of the universe. Everything I Am, you are. And you cannot be otherwise. Nothing can take away the truth of who you are. Nothing can eliminate this light.

Let this time of the year, the pinnacle, the silence, the held breath when time stops, the period between the Christ-Mass and the beginning of the new year be for you the void that allows you to shed every old illusion of what you think you are, that you might stand free and feel the truth; that you might be the powerful illumination of creation; that you might be more wondrous than all the angels; that you might remember the truth of your being and claim it. Then, when the wheel of time begins again, beloved ones, don't go with it. Stay attuned to the truth of your heart. Remember the reality of the Love you are. And let this be what you choose to live in the new year and always.

From within the dream of duality it seems difficult to disengage from the egoic mind and its perspective. You have been programmed very effectively to continue to promote the ideas of separation from Love. But this time of the year is holy because the wheel of time stops and gives you the peace, gives you the silence that allows you to fully engage in the reality of your heart.

This is what is here for you. And this year is more powerful and important than any before, because in this year, the whole of the creation of life on earth is being attuned, being directed to hold the resonance of your Love; to be the mirror for you of the truth of God; to sing for you, to show you all that you truly are; to remind you in every particle of your being that you are My Love - and nothing else is real.

Take hold of this. Claim all that you are. Let your heart's light encompass that which you have named your body, that it too might be the reflection of your glorious Love. And that the endless life and abundance of God I Am may rush forth to create your experience of the world. A world made of Love, and nothing else.

This is a time of the year that is often overlooked by those who seek to live the truth of Love because the energies of the egoic world are set up to keep you busy, to keep you looking outside of yourself so you miss the deep silence. You miss the parting of the veil. You miss the powerful reconnection with the truth of your being. And you miss the opportunity to make the choice to claim all that you are and to step into the New Year living it.

Let Me be your guide as we enter the time of Love, when the great light of the Christos comes to show you all that you are, to penetrate the illusion of other-than-Love, and to shine forth the miracle of acceptance of all of My gifts.

You have no idea how often you reject the gifts of Love. Certainly it is not done consciously. It is done through the power of your focus, through the egoic mind keeping you turned away when Love opens your heart. Therefore, I Am calling you now to be present, conscious in this time, to stand fully in your holiness and to feel the glory of God I Am blossoming here as you - as the heart of Love. Because all of the world is attuned to this shift. The whole of the life I Am is here to support you. This vibration of Love is now so strong it is impossible to ignore it anymore. This time, beloved ones, it is easy. It is easy, not only to choose your heart, but to claim your truth as the heart of God and absolutely nothing else.

There is a moment when time resumes. That moment when the new year begins. And that is the moment you must watch your step. You must be present and fully conscious to make the choice to be your truth; to live the Love you are always and to take the step in this new year into the layer of the multiverse that is the pure expression of God.

So at that moment when the clock chimes, when the ball falls, when the New Year comes, you, beloved ones, must choose which world you will live in. Whether the clock of duality starts ticking again, or whether you will be free to live beyond time, to live in the moment of God; to live the truth that all that I Am is present in you - here and now.

You are ready to claim it, to let the wheel of time end, to let duality move on without you. As you stand fully in remembrance of Love claiming the truth of your heart, be ready to be the vehicle of the expression of Love, and nothing else.

Can you claim this again and again? Of course. But the moment of the New Year is especially potent, for behind you is the experience you've just had and you are standing free in the deep silence. That first step into the New Year is powerful, important and is that which moves you into the experience of giving the Love you are with no interference.

I Am here, beloved ones, to take your hand; to help you make that step; to keep you from tripping over the stories of the ego-mind; to help you leave behind - in the void - everything that you've believed about yourself as a limited human being.

I Am here to help you fly beyond every idea of time and mind. Holding to a world of only Love lets you solve the world's problems because you are loving them into transformation from another level. You truly cannot solve a problem on the level of the problem. And while seeing problems is certainly not where I want your attention, what I want you to see is how potent your Love is for holding the reality of your truth as the heart of God and letting this entrain the world into the expression of your Love and the reality of the beneficent universe - and the wonder of our communion.

So as you approach this turning of the year, recognize that time is ending. And that those who choose to consciously step from the world of experience just passing into the world of only Love shall be supported by absolutely every life, every expression of the whole of God I Am; uplifted by the expression of beauty that is nature; held in the tender arms of the Angels; celebrated in your glory by those who are of the realms of Love. And most of all, living from the center - your center - as the heart of God.

You can feel the reality of your Love. Beloved ones, you know who you are. You know the truth of your heart. For a little while, the world of duality captured your attention but it is no longer fascinating. And you are ready to leave it behind. Not to leave the world and your purpose in it, but to shift the resonance at which you live that you might always be the heart entraining the illusion of separation from Love into the never-ending, never-changing truth that Love is all that's Real.

You are millions strong. And you stand heart-to-heart in a solidarity of Love that cannot be disrupted; that fills you with energy; that creates for you the vision of what the world is meant to be. The blooming of the heart of the Christos. The joined hearts of humankind and the blessing of the Earth mother, creating a new chakra of light, a new vortex in the omniverse -- allowing Love not only to be extended, but to be dynamically multiplied.

You are creating more Love in powerful, unprecedented ways. So let your hearts remember this truth and show you this glorious matrix of Love that is being woven by your unity and grounded through your decision to live the only Real truth. And thus, to make manifest a world of only Love.

I Am here with you. Beloved ones, move into this communion that your heart may truly be the instrument through which you see and through which you live. And that the communion with Me means communion with all life, for All That I Am is present in everything and your heart already knows this.

Therefore, you now begin to live the experience of conscious Love in all things, through all things, as all things and in the world. Your every moment springs forth from the silence and bursts forth as the ecstasy of Love and the gift of humankind.

The Messages from God
Through Yael and Doug Powell
At Circle of Light

www.circleoflight.net

Circle of Light
3969 Mundell Road
Eureka Springs, AR 72631